

KIDS HEAR EVERYTHING

PARENTING CHALLENGES ★ PAGE 1 OF 1

An original poem, written by Sandy McDaniel.

Don't take for granted how much children hear,
they are constantly tuned in,
whether far—or near;

Watch what you say every time you talk,
they're learning how the world works,
in it, how to walk;

If the TV is on, what can they hear?
Soap operas—some radio programs
teach to live in fear;

Listen! Their model is Y-O-U!
The words you use daily
will be their words, too.
